

Benefits of terraced farming

Terraced farming is an ancient tradition and can be found around the world. So let's look at some of its benefits!

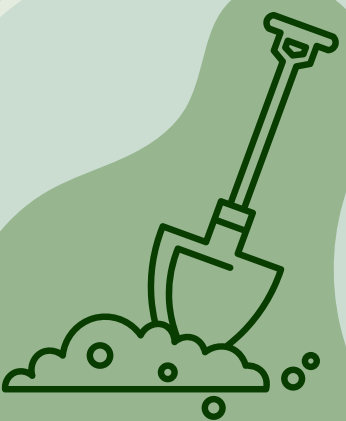

Increases farmability and land productivity of sloped fields.

Contributes to water conservation: water runoffs are slowed down and reduced and rainwater harvesting is improved.

By decreasing rill formations soil erosions are prevented.

Food production is increased by adjusting hilly land for farming.

